

A bail hearing is a court hearing where a judicial justice or a judge decides if an accused will be released from jail until their trial. Bail hearing results are posted online in different ways, depending on where and when the hearing was held.

Weekday bail hearings during court hours

Judges conduct weekday bail hearings in court locations around the province. You will find the results of these bail hearings on the "Court lists" pages of the Government of BC's website.

To see the results of all court appearances in the last five days:

- Click "Adult Completed Court Lists (Provincial)"
- Click the court location where the bail hearing was held

Court lists \(Government of BC\)

Evening and weekend bail hearings

Judicial justices work from the Justice Centre to conduct after-hours bail hearings. You can see the results of these hearings on Court Services Online.

- Click "Daily Court Lists" and "view Judicial Interim Release list".
- This list only includes bail hearings held the day before that have not been entered on Court Services Online. (Tracking Sheets are scanned and posted daily, but not archived, so past Justice Centre tracking sheets are not available.)

Court Services Online \(Government of BC\)

Understand the abbreviations

The Judicial Interim Release (bail) lists use these abbreviations:

RIC: Remand by consent

REM: Remand

OR: Recognizance no deposit or surety

RWD: Recognizance with deposit

RWS: Recognizance with surety

RDS: Recognizance with deposit and surety

DO: Detention order

UTA: Undertaking to a justice or judge

Bail results

Outcomes of bail hearings. (Government of BC)

Source URL:

<https://main-bvx6a6i-t74dtfugroaqq.ca-1.platformsh.site/finding-judgments/bail-hearing-results>